

NOTES ON AUTHORS

---

BARBARA DATE is “Hapa” (Hawaiian for “half”), half Japanese-American and half English, raised in an intercultural, interfaith residential co-operative community of 79 families on 100 acres, 30 miles west of Chicago and within a progressive Anabaptist Historic Peace Church congregation (Church of the Brethren). Both her master’s in Interpersonal and Small Group Communication and Conflict Resolution and her doctoral degree in Counseling Psychology (Proactive Prosocial Behavior) are from the University of Oregon. Barbara was the Esau Distinguished Visiting Professor in Conflict Resolution Studies at Menno Simons College in 1995-1997. She works with the Center for Dialogue & Resolution and is a member of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and Under a Northern Sky. E-mail: paxdate@gmail.com.

JODI M. DUECK-READ is Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution Studies at Menno Simons College, Canadian Mennonite University. Her dissertation examines social movement actors and peacebuilding dynamics in the transnational border justice movement in Arizona and Sonora. Prior to her graduate studies, Jodi worked with Mennonite Central Committee in Chile, Bolivia, and at the United States-Mexico border. As a scholar activist, Jodi seeks to infuse scholarship with queer and feminist perspectives emanating from engaged peacebuilding. E-Mail: jo.read@uwinnipeg.ca.

DESMOND MOLLOY is a former Irish Army officer with United Nations (UN) service. Since 1975, Des has committed to humanitarian, emergency response, and post-conflict stabilization missions with international

PEACE RESEARCH
The Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies
Volume 51, Number 1 (2019): 113-116
©2019 Peace Research

nongovernmental organizations and the UN, including as Chief of UN Disarmament, Demobilisation and Reintegration (DDR) in Sierra Leone and Haiti. Des graduated with a PhD from the Tokyo University of Foreign Studies in 2013, meanwhile undertaking various additional DDR missions in Africa and Asia. Des is currently the Course Mentor at Hiroshima Peacebuilders Center; a Core Member of the International Research Group on Reintegration, Tromsø University; associated with Folke Bernadotte Academy, Stockholm; and a DDR facilitator at numerous international training and academic courses. He has published extensively on DDR in various journals and books including Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration: Theory and Practice, published in 2016. E-mail: Dsmndmolloy@me.com.

LORNA MONKMAN is Métis (Cree/English), raised in Manitoba with a Bachelor's degree from Menno Simons College / The University of Winnipeg in Conflict Resolution and Justice and Law Enforcement Studies. Lorna worked in the field of restorative justice with Indigenous youth and adults for ten years, and as a trainer and sessional instructor in Mediation Skills, Coaching Skills, and Valuing Diversity. Lorna currently works with the Government of Canada in program funding administration. She is a mother of one son, Ethan. E-mail: metisgal@shaw.ca

NANCY ROSS is an assistant professor at the School of Social Work, Dalhousie University. She has worked as a front-line social worker, therapist, educator and community activist. Her research interests include a focus on using a critical feminist peacebuilding lens to influence political and social policy responses to adverse childhood experiences and interpersonal violence. E-Mail: Nancy.Ross@Dal.Ca.

ERICH SCHELLHAMMER recently retired from Royal Roads University, Victoria, Canada after a long career in justice studies. His research interest developed from finding a philosophical justification for the merits of cultural diversity to a phenomenological grounding of human rights in human ontology to embracing recent leadership studies to identify a new leadership category, which is peace leadership. His latest academic interest is in combining modern leadership studies with peace and conflict studies in order to formulate a framework for peace leadership. He has been the inaugural chair of the Peace Leadership Affinity Group of the International Leadership Association and has published numerous articles on peace leadership. Erich lives in Canada and in Germany. E-mail: Erich.Schellhammer@RoyalRoads.ca.