

NOTES ON AUTHOR

HAVAL AHMAD is Associate Faculty at Royal Roads University and teaches in the Master of Arts in Human Security and Peacebuilding program. His research interests include de-radicalization, terrorism, counter violent extremisms (CVE), Kurdish affairs, conflict and human security in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region. His current work focuses on the de-radicalization of children and youth in the post-ISIS era. Other areas of Ahmad's work include analyzing geopolitics and foreign intervention in the MENA region and its impact on stability and human security. E-Mail: haval.1ahmad@royalroads.ca.

JOBBA ARNOLD is an Associate Professor of Conflict Resolution Studies at Menno Simons College, a College of Canadian Mennonite University at the University of Winnipeg. His work employs interdisciplinary approaches to the comparative and cross-cultural study of conflict and peacebuilding processes. E-Mail: jo.arnold@uwinnipeg.ca.

JERRY BUCKLAND is an economist and a professor of International Development at Menno Simons College a College, of Canadian Mennonite University at the University of Winnipeg. His specializations include financial ecosystem studies and regional/community development. He has authored many articles and books in these fields including two recent books related to personal finances (Building Financial Resilience, 2018, and Payday Lending in Canada [co-edited], 2018). With a large research team, he is working on a 6-year study, the Canadian Financial Diaries, exploring the

PEACE RESEARCH
The Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies
Volume 52, No. 1 and 2 (2020): 261-265
©2020 Peace Research

dynamics of low-income people's finances. E-Mail: j.buckland@uwinnipeg.ca.

LISA MCLEAN is a Ph.D. Candidate at the Carter School for Peace and Conflict Resolution at George Mason University. She was previously Dean's Fellow for the Center for the Study of Gender and Conflict and her work has been published in peer-reviewed journals and edited volumes including the Routledge Handbook of Peace and Conflict Studies. McLean's research focuses on gender and migration, exploring the grassroots mobilization of migrants and their families in response to displacement and border violence. Her most recent project was a multi-sited ethnography that analyzed the strategies and political demands of the Caravan of Central American Mothers of Disappeared Migrants. E-Mail: lmclea43@uwo.ca

RUTH REMPEL is an associate professor of International Development at Canadian Mennonite University's Menno Simons College. Ruth has a PhD in Modern African History from the University of Toronto. The history of development is her academic passion and peace-making is an important part of development in the African context. She is working on a history of development in Africa since 1970. E-Mail: r.rempel@uwinnipeg.ca.

ERICH SCHELLHAMMER recently retired from Royal Roads University, Victoria, Canada after a long career in justice studies. His research interest developed from finding a philosophical justification for the merits of cultural diversity to a phenomenological grounding of human rights in human ontology to embracing recent leadership studies to identify a new leadership category, which is peace leadership. His latest academic interest is in combining modern leadership studies with peace and conflict studies to formulate a framework for peace leadership. He has been the inaugural chair of the Peace Leadership Affinity Group of the International Leadership Association and has published numerous articles on peace leadership. Erich lives in Canada and in Germany. E-Mail: Erich.Schellhammer@RoyalRoads.ca.

JANET SCHMIDT has worked full time as a mediator for more than 20 years. Born of her mediation practice, she has developed numerous training courses for Resolution Skills Centre and Facilitated Solutions, including an intensive course on facilitating groups in conflict. Jan has extensive international experience in the field, having lived and worked in Africa from 1996-1999. Since returning to Canada, her focus has been exclusively on facilitating workplace disputes. Jan holds a Masters of Education degree with a focus on organizational behaviour and psychology. E-Mail: janet@janetschmidt.ca.

JONATHAN SEARS, Associate Dean of Menno Simons College, oversees the daily operation of Canadian Mennonite University (CMU) programs affiliated with the University of Winnipeg, that is, the Conflict Resolution Studies (CRS) and International Development Studies (IDS) programs. Jon approaches International Development Studies and Comparative Politics of Sub-Saharan Africa in English, et en Français from a multi-disciplinary background in political studies, philosophy, and anthropology. Jonathan is also an External Member of the Centre Franco Paix of the Raoul-Dandurand Chair in Strategic and Diplomatic Studies at the Université du Québec à Montréal. E-Mail: j.sears@uwinnipeg.ca

ANNA SNYDER , a peace educator, is associate professor of conflict resolution studies at Menno Simons College where she has been teaching for 21 years. As a peace researcher, her most recent research and writing explores the peacebuilding capacity of refugee women's organizations from Myanmar, Tibet, and South Sudan. Her work builds on her expertise in women's peace organizations; Snyder's book Setting the Agenda for Global Peace: Conflict and Consensus Building looks at transnational women's peace networks. She is editor of Peace Research: The Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies. A peace practitioner, she co-trained political parties in conflict resolution in Myanmar on behalf of the Council for Democracy for Burma. Her co-authored chapter in the Aboriginal Healing Foundation's From Truth to Reconciliation arose from her practice in Indigenous/non-Indigenous reconciliation and resulted in her work as consultant to reconciliation events at Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission on Residential Schools. She currently acts as a consultant to Manitoba Women for Women South Sudan. Email: a.snyder@uwinnipeg.ca.

STEPHANIE P. STOBBE is an Associate Professor in Conflict Resolution Studies at Menno Simons College and a leading expert on Southeast Asian processes of dispute resolution. As an active educator, trainer, and Alternative Dispute Resolution practitioner, she has worked and conducted research in Canada, United States, South America, Europe, South Asia, and Southeast Asia. Her current books include Conflict Resolution and Peacebuilding in Laos: Perspective for Today's World and Mediation and Other Cultural Models of Conflict Resolution in Asia. Currently, she serves as the Lexington Publications book series editor for Conflict Resolution and Peacebuilding in Asia. In 2019, Stephanie was awarded a Fellow of McLaughlin College at York University for her work in conflict resolution and peacebuilding, and on refugees, and in 2020 she was invited to serve on the Expert Advisory Board for the Centre for Asia Pacific Refugee Studies at Auckland University in New Zealand. She is also active on the Board of the ADR Institute of Manitoba. E-Mail: s.stobbe@uwinnipeg.ca.

ELIZABETH STORK is a Professor of Organizational Leadership. She earned her Ph.D. in Social Work – Social Administration from the University of Pittsburgh as well as her M.A. in Sociology in Gender, Race, and Class and her M.S.W. Her B.A. in The Classics is from L.S.U. She has been teaching at Robert Morris University since 2005. Stork conducts research in a variety of subjects related to the social construction of leadership but her interests are strongly in patriarchal effects on women and men leaders, how peace is influenced by the treatment of women, and the persistence of gender stereotypes. Areas of research are in leader entitlement, using film to study gender stereotyping, deconstructing leadership, and deconstructing diversity. Currently she is studying women activists in authoritarian, patriarchal countries such as Jordan, Armenia, and Ethiopia, interviewing women who accomplish things under oppressive social traditions. She teaches research methods, social movements, sex/gender and leadership, and leadership and democracy. Email: stork@rmu.edu.

SANDRA WIEBE holds a Master's in Development Practice (MDP) from the University of Arizona, USA. She has been involved in numerous social justice research projects and her current research interest focuses on Critical Animal Studies and Post-humanism. E-mail: sandrawiebe1468@gmail.com.

RAY VANDERZAAG is Associate Professor of International Development Studies at Canadian Mennonite University. His research focuses on trends in international development assistance, particularly related to faith-based NGOs. His perspectives on development and peace have been shaped by 30 years of work and study in Haiti. Email: rvanderzaag@cmu.ca.