

NOTES ON AUTHORS

DEMOLA AKINYOADE is a Reader in Peace and Conflict Studies at Afe Babalola University, Ado-Ekiti (ABUAD), Nigeria. He is a scholar-practitioner with over a decade experience researching, teaching and practicing Peace and Conflict Studies. He had his MA and PhD degrees in Peace and Conflict Studies from the University of Ibadan, Nigeria, and postgraduate certificates in Peace Studies/Research from University of Bradford, United Kingdom, and University of Oslo, Norway. E-mail: demola.akinyoade@abuad.edu.ng.

KENNETH CHRISTIE is the Program Head and a Professor in the Human Security and Peacebuilding graduate program at Royal Roads University in Victoria, Canada. Christie is a political scientist, author, editor, and international academic who has taught and conducted research at universities in the U.S., Singapore, South Africa, Norway and Dubai, and now Canada. Working all over the world has given him a unique perspective on peace, development and human security. His work has focused on issues of human rights, security and democratization and more recently the relationship between migration and human security. E-mail: Kenneth.1Christie@royalroads.ca.

NEIL FUNK-UNRAU is the senior co-editor of Peace Research: The Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies and Associate Professor Emeritus of Conflict Resolution Studies at Canadian Mennonite University. He served as Associate Dean of Menno Simons College from 2015 to 2019. His research work has included restorative justice, Indigenous-Settler relations

PEACE RESEARCH
The Canadian Journal of Peace and Conflict Studies
Volume 53, Number 1 (2021): 110-136
©2021 Peace Research

and public apology processes. E-mail: n.funk-unrau@uwinnipeg.ca.

GORDON L. HEATH is Professor of Christian History at McMaster Divinity College and a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society. His research interests lie particularly in the area of church-state and church-war issues. He has a number of research projects on the go at the moment, one of which is related to a SSHRC research grant funding research into Canadian Protestant Churches and Constructions of Empire and Nation (1899-1945). E-mail: gheath@mcmaster.ca.

JANE LEAVITT is currently living in Japan after travelling the world studying and performing Indigenous theatre. Last year she spent time in Bhutan teaching applied theatre praxis at a high school in the Haa Valley. Jane was previously program director for Drama in Education at Brock University where she co-founded the Turn Around Projects of the Arts, a non-profit organization that develops applied theatre projects. While living in Jamaica, Dubai, Ecuador and Japan, Jane directed numerous international applied theatre projects. E-mail: Inlvtt@gmail.com.

GEORGE MELNYK is Professor Emeritus of Communication, Media, and Film Studies at the University of Calgary. He was a founder of the Consortium for Peace Studies at the University of Calgary and served as both its first co-chair and its final Director. He is the author or editor of over 25 books on Canadian topics. He lives in Calgary. E-mail: gmelnk@ucalgary.ca.

EDMUND PRIES is Associate Professor of Global Studies (Peace and Conflict Studies), Religion and Culture, Social Entrepreneurship and Community Engagement at Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo, Canada. His research has focused on the history of oath refusal, as well as Just War

Theory, and International Humanitarian Law. He also writes on pedagogy. Dr. Pries is the recipient of four awards for teaching excellence. He co-edited the book Peace Studies between Tradition and Innovation (2015). E-mail: epries@wlu.ca.

ENKELEJDA SULA-RAXHIMI, assistant professor at the School of Conflict Studies, Saint Paul University, is an anthropologist specialized in political anthropology. Her research interests focus on power and abuse of power, political and ethnic violence, gender and conflict, Roma minorities, migration and forced displacement - due to conflict and climate change. She has conducted field research in France, Albania and Kosovo among the people who have experienced war and violence firsthand. E-mail: esraxhimi@ustpaul.ca.

ADEBAYO TOSIN holds a Master's degree in Conflict, Peace, and Strategic Studies from Afe Babalola University, Ado Ekiti, Nigeria. His current research focuses on issues affecting the vulnerable members of the society such as children, women, refugees, and internally displaced persons. E-mail: tosin.seun.adebayo@gmail.com.